About Us

After more than 30 years of experience within various market fields we have concluded that no matter the complexity of customer needs, we have to take on the mission to make security management easier and more secure. This means that everything we do, from innovation to communication has to reflect our expertise for integrated security solutions through innovation.

We aim for clear communication, leading to an understanding of customer needs, resulting in flexible and user-friendly security solutions. While we have end customers who have security as their main business most of our customers don't.

They are more interested in having a freedom to conduct their core business without compromising their security. We achieve this by incorporating our systems in the daily life and operation with a minimum of friction to the end customer.

We sincerely hope that your organization will be the next one to join our network of prestigious organizations in the area of multi-site- and campus style environments within verticals such as healthcare, education, airports, utilities and telecommunications, retail, transportation and banking and finance.
